The Challenge:

After a century's worth of success and market leadership, a southwestern-based automobile dealership found themselves in unfamiliar territories. Proud of their industry leading customer service, their ownership team realized that their explosive growth caused them to slip in the area of Customer Service and Support. Due to high and unpredictable call volumes, the dealership answered customer calls through an automated messaging system. Additionally, the system only allowed customers to transfer internally to voicemail versus a live representative. Even more, because of the dealership's success and heavy customer foot traffic, new customer voicemails were not often returned for several hours, sometimes even through the next day; leading to an unacceptable customer experience.

The time had come to put customer service back at the top of the priority list; ensuring customers received a live, helpful, and friendly voice. One who could answer questions and facilitate transfers internally to the appropriate area.

Last but not least, the dealership recommitted themselves to their proactive client services and sales culture, ensuring all current and former customers (as well as new prospects) were contacted in a timely manner to communicate saving opportunities and incentive eligibility. The Sales Team was struggling to complete this customer outreach as they were often too busy with walk-in traffic and customer courtesy calls were not getting done.

The Solution:

Five Star Call Centers responded to the company's needs with a cost effective staffing model to answer incoming phone calls. This model allowed for that personal touch with every customer interaction that had been so important in the company's 100 years of success. Inbound customer calls were now answered by knowledgeable and courteous customer service representatives who were dedicated to providing world class customer care as an extension of the dealership's brand. FSCC agents also ran the company's switchboard, successfully directing each customer to the appropriate individual or department, ensuring their needs were being met in a timely fashion. Utilizing customer focused training and leveraging its experience in customer communications and implementation, FSCC was able to seamlessly facilitate the transfer of customers to the end-user, resulting in a first-contact-resolution. Gone were the days of frustrating automated systems and waiting for call backs.

Tackling improved customer satisfaction and increased customer awareness, FSCC proposed our proprietary outbound customer contact strategy to drive sales using the Client's existing CRM and database. Scripting was designed by FSCC to increase calling efficiency and increase foot traffic in the store. Comprehensive list management strategies were utilized to update and improve database quality and FSCC was able to integrate our technologies with the client's CRM to provide real time visibility and results.
